Stand Up For the Law

Recent events in Canada, both east and west, point to the necessity of great care being exercised, not so much by the authorities, perhaps, as by the people in general to safeguard one of the Dominion's finest traditions and at the same time protect the liberties of the citizen.

Canada has long been recognized throughout the world, and especially in the great republic to the south, as a country where law was respected and obeyed. When even the most lenient legislation was administered to high and low, rich and poor alike, and where sooner or later the long arm of the law would get the guilty. In the United States, where so many murderers escape just punishment for their crimes, where the law's delays are almost interminable, and where, as a result of a lack of public confidence in the machinery of justice, lynchings are not infrequent, the reputation borne by Canada was an invaluable asset. It is an asset Canada cannot afford to lose, nor allow to be lessened.

A few weeks ago, however, a group of men in southern Saskatchewan took the law into their own hands and drove a labor agitator out of the country, threatening him with tar and feathers if he returned. On August 16, at Thorold, Ont., a mob stormed the town jail and finally set fire to it in an effort to take a prisoner from the officers of the law in order that they might intimidate him themselves, although he had not been found guilty of the crime of which he was accused. Fortunately, common sense and an appeal to British fair play was effective in restraining the passions of the mob before it took the irretrievable step.

People, however, must be on their guard against such exhibitions and acts, if Canada is not to suffer in the eyes of the world, and the rights and liberties of its own people placed in jeopardy. Even in the earlier days when the west was "wild and woolly," and at the time of the great stampede to the Yukon, law was maintained and respected so effectively as to call forth the admiration of all countries. It is as necessary as ever that it should continue to be maintained. The world has passed through a period when human life seemed to be the cheapest commodity in the world, and as a result many people do not look upon the taking of human life as seriously as of old. But the old conception of the sacredness of human life must be fully re-established, and it is the duty of all citizens to assist by precept and practice to such restoration, and to oppose by all legitimate means in their power anything that tends to weaken and destroy confidence in the law.

The maintenance of law and order is the foundation of any organized society. Without respect for law and lacking order, society could not exist, all property would soon cease to have any value, family ties would be dissolved, and human life ultimately be the plaything of the murderer and assassin.

To do away with law, and respect for law—which, of course, would follow the non-enforcement of law—and disorder would reign supreme. All mankind would revert to only one law—the law of the jungle, the law that might is right and must and will prevail.

Every man and woman realizes in their innermost beings that this is true, and that the whole organism on which human society rests has been evolved and erected because of general acceptance of the absolute necessity of a state of law and order. Mob rule is evil and vicious in the highest degree.

The maintenance of order rests absolutely in respect for and the upholding of the law. And the upholding of the law—which, after all, is the concrete expression of the will of the majority of the people—is dependent upon respect for and unqualified support of those who are appointed to administer the laws which the people through their elected representatives have enacted for the common good and protection of all.

There can be only one outcome resulting from a loss of public confidence in the administration of justice in this country, and that is the act of the people-taking the law into their own hands—law will be superseded by license; anarchy will replace order. Life and property will become playthings of the passions of men, and all those precious liberties and that freedom, to defend and maintain which our heroic soldiers died and suffered in their hundreds of thousands, and which alone can be maintained under a system of law and order, will be destroyed, and a state of disorder and chaos prevail.

Every person who joins in or cheerers on a mob is undermining the very foundations of that law which is his own safeguard and the protection of his family and his property.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the little ones as is the summer. The excesses of the heat, the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes the trouble. The heat, the heat when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the mouth and keep baby healthy. Baby's Own Tablets are a medium digestible or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

To Make a Pound of Honey

It is Clear That the 'Busy Bee' is Well Named

The Manchester Guardian quotes experts as saying that this is to be a good season for honey, and it adds that many people will welcome the news, though few realize the enormous effort a single pound of honey necessitates on the part of the bees, a pound jar." The Guardian explains: "The concentrated essence of over 60,000 flowers is calculated that to make a pound of clover honey the bees must take nectar from 62,000 blossoms and make 2,750,000 visits in the process. Often the journey from the hive to the flowers and back runs to two miles, so that the making of a pound of honey entails journeys aggregating over 5,000,000 miles. When it is remembered that a single colony of bees will produce from sixty to eighty pounds of honey in a season it is clear that the 'busy bee' is well named."

Black Bass for Lake Nipigon

The south end of Orient Bay on Lake Nipigon, and Keemany Lake were recently stocked with three hundred parent black bass. The fish were shipped from Toronto in tanks and deposited in the water by Neil McDougall, sportsman's representative of the Canadian National railway.

Miller's Worm Powders do not need the after-help of castor oil or any purgatives to complete their thoroughness, because they are found in themselves. One dose of the powder will end the worm trouble for all children, will end the worm trouble by making the stomach and bowels untenable to the parasites. And not only will it end the worm trouble but it will exert most beneficial influences on the digestive organs.

A $1,000,000 crane with a lifting capacity of 1,000,000 pounds is being used at the Philadelphia navy yard. It stands 245 feet high.

HAIR SOON TOO SHORT TO DO UP

A little "Danderine" stops your hair coming out and doubles its beauty

To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of delightful "Danderine" or any drug or toilet counter for a few cents, pour a little on your hair and rub it in. After several applications the hair usually stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Help your hair grow strong, thick and long; it will be twice as long and twice as beautiful and abundant as ever.

U. S. History at Oxford

From Oxford comes the interesting note that Viscount Rothermere has offered to Oxford University through the chancellor, on certain specified conditions, a sum of $100,000 for the establishment and endowment of a professorship of the history of the United States of America, to be styled the Harold Vyvyan Harmsworth Professorship of American History in memory of his son, Capt. the Hon. Harold Vyvyan Harmsworth, M.C., Irish Guards, formerly commander of Christ Church, who was killed in the war.

The Riksdag has passed legislation looking to the electrification of the entire system of state railroads in Sweden.

WHY EXPERIMENT?

Food scientists claim that the leavener is largely responsible for the flavor, texture and wholesomeness of your home baking. That on no other one ingredient does so much depend. It is important, therefore, to use a baking powder that you know possesses the necessary leavening qualities.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

Refloat Vindictive

The British light cruiser Vindictive which was sunk in the entrance of Ostend harbor on May 11, 1918, and which has blocked that port since that time, has been refloated and the port is again open for traffic. The sinking of the Vindictive was one of the most thrilling events of the last year of the war.

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting.

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there comes a sense of palpitation, tension, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves strained, take Heart and Nerve Pills as just the remedy you require.

They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Dr. T. T. Milburn, East Clinton, N.S., writes: "I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting an hour. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them. I have since had quite well, I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man." Price 50c. a box at all dealers or mail-order houses on receipt of price by The T. T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"Tell me," said the solicitor for the prosecution, "were you present at the inception of the altercation?" "No, sir," replied the witness, "but I was there when the fight started."—London Tit-bits.

As they approached Declute's home which was a house of logs close to the shore of Rond Eau, a couple of wire-haired mongrel curs came yelping out to meet them.

"There's David and Goliath," said Ander. "Rachel named them dogs. She's great on Biblical names is Rachel—to dang'd great," he finished in a lower key.

Gloss opened the door and stepped inside. Mrs. Declute turned slowly from the table and a smile spread across her flower-streaked face.

"Oh, dear," she said, pointing forward and implanting a stinging smack on the girl's rosy cheek. "You little dear, to come just now of all times, when I most wanted to see you."

Mrs. Declute smiled again and a bit of powder fell from her face. It was a big matronly face, with big-heartedness written clean across it, and real kindness beaming in its large black eyes. She was a big woman, "nigh two hundred and thirty," as Ander put it.

"Where are babies?" asked Gloss, sitting down on a stool and glancing about the small room.

"Sleepin' like angels, th' trouble some little good-for-nothin's," smiled the woman fondly. "Moses is just that troublesome I think sometimes. I'll have to tie him up. Only this mornin' he upset the cradle and spilt little Martha out on the floor ket-bump. Give my life if I wasn't so provoked I could have beehed him if he hadn't been just gettin' over the jitters."

"Ander tells me that you are thinkin' of having a luggin'," said Gloss. "Is there nothing I could do to help you, Mrs. Declute?"

"Just what I was wantin' to see about," cried the beaming woman, sitting down and wiping her face with her apron. "Thought first as I'd run across to Totherside and ask widder Ross to come over. Then I thought about her havin' that teacher boardin' there, and I didn't want to put her out any. Fine cook is the widder, but somehow I can't think as anybody can cook meats and save 'em up quite like you, Glossie. I'm fixin' up some dried-apple pies. Sent over to Bridgetown this mornin' by Jim Peeler for the dried-apples. I guess he'll be along soon."

"He's comin' right now," called Declute from the door. "I'll go along and give him a hand, I guess. He's got some tobacco for me—leavestays I hope he has; I sent for some."

"Ain't that a man for you?" winked Mrs. Declute. "Ain't that a man, though?" Glossie, my dear, didn't you ever marry a man; don't you ever do it. You'll be in all the days of your life if you do. Every time I am almost sorry sometimes an' Anders an exception of a man. There ain't no other like him. And makes alive, he had enough, dear knows."

Ander and a short, heavy-set man entered, and the latter laid a number of parcels on the table. He had a jolly round red face with crow's-feet about the corners of brown eyes, stamped there by much smiling. It was said of Jim Peeler that he had never been known to lose his temper. He stood a short rifle in the corner and sat down near the table. Mrs. Declute arose and brought a steaming tea-pot from the hearth, also a plate of bread and cold meat.

After disposing of a goodly portion of the victuals before him, Jim turned to Gloss with the question:

"How's the sick?"

"No better," answered Gloss, her face growing grave.

"Dear, how thoughtless I am!" exclaimed Mrs. Declute. "I know there was somethin' I wanted to ask you, Gloss. That's it. How's th' dear little woman?"

Ander was cutting off a piece of black chewing-tobacco from a slab.

"Why don't you tell old Betsy bout her?" he asked.

"Shut up Ander," flashed his wife, "Be you a Christian, or be you a heathen as believe in witches?"

"There, there," laughed Peter soothingly. "I guess Ander is a good Christian. But I was talkin' to a real Christian today; a real pious, right-down good man."

"The same," answered Peeler. "And by the way, I met that man Watson as I was comin' home. He must have been over here, eh?"

"He was here this mornin'," said Gloss. "He was tryin' to buy our place."

"Our place?"

Peter's face lost its smile and his bushy eyebrows met in a scowl. "How about you, Ander?"

Declute squirmed.

"Oh, I ain't thinkin' much about it, Jim. I ain't worryin' none."

His wife gazed at him contemptuously.

"You ain't brains enough to worry about anythin'," she exclaimed. "Was that Watson ridin' alone, Jim?"

"Well, no, he wasn't. That teacher chap was with him. He was ridin' the bay belongin' to Hallibut's engineer."

Gloss looked up, her eyes wide. "Then they were together?" she asked.

"Yes," replied Peeler. "I suppose the teacher was seein' him through part of the bush. I was tellin' to Blake, the sawyer over to the mill a while ago, he tell me Colonel Hubert has hired Peeler and Watson to help out our timberland."

"Whoo-hoo!" on the trail did you meet 'em?" asked Declute.

"Why, he had only got nicely started I guess. It wasn't more than two or three miles out at most!"

"Where has Watson been all day, I wonder?" cried Gloss. "He was at our place shortly after sun-up."

From the next room came a commotion, and three round-eyed youngsters, between the ages of three and six, protuded their heads from beneath the buckskin door-curtain.

"Get back in that, Moses and Zachaeus," commanded the mother. "You ain't had half enough sleep yet."

"Oh, let me hug them," Mrs. Declute pleaded.

She ran across and gathered the babies up, all together, in her arms. They twined their chubby arms about her neck and rubbed their faces against her face. They were sweet, wholesome youngsters, and the girl loved them. She kissed them all three times around, then set them in a row on the floor.

"Guss we'd better be goin', Ander," she said, "that is, if you have to come. But I'm not the least timid about goin' alone."

"Course he'll go," declared Mrs. Declute, "and you too, Jim Peeler, 'cause I've got to get on with them pies. Tell Libby the beeb's next Thursday, and I'll want her to help with the table. Much obliged for your kindness, Jim. Good-night, Gloss."

CHAPTER IX.

"Guess I'll step through the back ridge here and look in on Bill Paisley for a minute or so," said Jim Peeler, as the three found the path leading to the creek.

"He's singin' his old pet song," smiled Gloss. "Hark, can't you hear him?"

Upon the tree-trunk of Rond Eau a red disk of a sun was drooping and smothered glory and all the wild-wood was full of life and harmony. From the thickets the hardiest of the song-birds were bidding good-bye to the wood. It was their last night in the old nesting-place.

Mingled with the symphony came Paisley's voice, trilling happily:

"Massan's gone away, de darkey say,

"Ho, ho!"

"Mus' be now dat de kingdom's comin'"

"I de year ob jubilo!"

"He's a happy beggar," chuckled Declute. "He's a happy beggar, is Bill and the biggest-hearted, softest-hearted baby of a man as ever I lived."

"God built some big things," said Peeler; "that," waving toward the mellow glory above, "this" looking about him; "an' Bill. Yes. He built Bill and nobody has ever spoiled His work."

Ought to Know Better

There is no use trying to joke with a woman. The other day Jones had a pretty good comendrum and decided to try it on his wife.

"Do you know why I am like a mule?" he asked her when he went home.

"No," she replied promptly. "I know you are, but I don't know why you are."

POLISH TROOPS ARE IMPROVING THEIR POSITION

RED ARMY IS DRIVEN BACK

Bolsheviks Forced to Retreat Along A Wide Section of Front

Paris.—Warsaw now seems to be saved from the Bolsheviks. President Piłsudski's armies no longer are obliged to fight a defence battle and are now on the offensive, was the news reaching here from the Polish sources, and the Reds are pausing before attempting to develop their successes. The offensive on the left wing is being personally led by the French general, Henryk Bilewski, and already has yielded several hundred kilometers. Once more, this will put the Poles in control of the fork between the Narew and Bug Rivers, while the forces advancing towards Miawa, which have reached Tschachow, 12 miles to the south of Miawa, will force Bolsheviks marching towards Plock and Thorn to beat a hasty retreat and consequently re-open the road-line to Danzig.

But the manoeuvre on the right wing, along the line of Garvolin and Paratchoff, between the Vistula and the Bug, is the more interesting of the two from the strategic standpoint, because it threatens communications with Red forces.

These troops have just arrived upon the Brody region, and have made rapid headway and have driven the Reds back all along the line toward Brest-Litovsk for distances varying from 25 to 50 miles.

Moscow.—Soviet Russia's position on both the Polish and South Russian fronts was pronounced "generally satisfactory" by Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik war minister in an address here. The speech was delivered at a meeting of the Moscow soviet.

Discussions on the situation, Trotsky declared that on the front against White Poland, our Red troops have fulfilled the fundamental part of their task. The holding up of our advanced troops before Warsaw in no way alters the situation, as the Polish front is now divided into parts—military and diplomatic—and possesses two centres, one in Warsaw and the other in Minsk.

"The peace negotiations at Minsk are of exceptional importance," continued the war minister, "because they are developing on the unstable foundations of a stormy movement among the workers. Great Britain, also, is passing through an unheard of display of excitement among her workers in connection with the peace negotiations between Russia and Poland."

"On General Wrangel's front," he added, "we are opening the gate wide to our enemies, but we shall assault them in the flank and rear. The fate of the revolution will be decided on the revolution front. This is why we have continued our forces in the west and are only leaving posts on the southern front in connection with the campaign, just to keep Wrangel busy."

Shipping Lines Want Increase

Involving Approximately Sixty U. S. Steamship Lines

Washington.—Great Lakes, coastwise and gulf carriers, urged the United States administration to grant applications involving approximately fifty steamship lines for rate increases in connection with the advances already allowed the railroads by the inter-state board of commerce. A majority of the lines are now operating at deficits which threaten their existence. It is said H. E. Madgeham was told by witnesses. Representatives of shippers are now being heard. Owing to the short time until increased railway rates become effective, efforts are being made to expedite the hearings.

Munitions Are Barred

Brussels.—The Belgian state railwayman's syndicate has decided to prevent the transportation to or through Belgium of troops or munitions intended for Poland. This decision follows similar action by Antwerp dockers.

Says Trainmen Not Exploiting Public

Explain That Five-Hour Day Is Not Equivalent to Eight-hour Day of Industry

Toronto.—Declaring that certain evidence regarding the "five-hour day," as given before the Dominion railway commission in connection with the application for increases in freight rates has been misunderstood, and used to make it appear that the strongly organized trainmen, by their demands, have been exploiting the public, and are reported for the further rate increase, a statement has been issued by the executive of the unions.

The principal contradictions are as follows:

1. The basic five-hour day for passenger engineers is not equivalent in value to the eight-hour day of industry. It is a minimum guaranteed day measurement, for special occasions, very seldom used. The general rule is that engineers in the passenger service are paid on a mileage basis. Their hours of work are most irregular, often extending from twelve to eighteen hours on a single trip.

2. There is not a great deal of overtime in the wage of trainmen, engineers operating passenger trains do not get time and a half for overtime. The only men who receive this are the trainmen and engineers on the slow freight service, which is not the general rule.

3. It is true that time as well as mileage is one of the factors that determine pay, and that delay is only paid for, but this is only on special occasions, and it is untrue to say that there is any inducement for engineers to run slow/ or to strive for delays. The inducement is all for operating in time.

4. The present salaries for engineers range from $200 to $250 a month, and hours are usually very long and irregular, and they are the poorest paid of the highly skilled mechanics, according to the men engaged in that kind of work.

Manifesto to Workers

Says Danger of War With Russia is Not Over

London.—The "council of action" off the British labor party, after a long discussion, issued a new manifesto to the workers of Great Britain declaring that the danger of war was not over.

"This," the manifesto says, "is not the time to be deceived by seeming fair words. Why does not the Premier announce the terms on which England will make peace with Russia? Why does the political world regard to the adventure of General Wrangel submerged?" The manifesto demands a full peace, together with a resumption of trading with Russia and exhorts the workers not to relax their efforts in this direction.

The council has not yet received any word from William Adamson and Harry Gosling, representatives of the council of action, who went to Paris to confer with the labor federation and the executives of the United Socialist party.

For Strike Leaders' Release

Deputation Headed by F. J. Dixon Plead Cause of Prisoners At Ottawa

Ottawa.—Pleading the cause of the imprisoned Winnipeg strike leaders, a deputation, headed by F. J. Dixon, leader of the Laborites, waited upon two members of the government. It is understood that the cause was the effect of the recent election in Winnipeg demonstrating the people's confidence in the imprisoned men, and served to show that the bulk of public opinion is behind the attitude of the men in forcing a general strike, also that few people believe the imprisoned men had any additional influence.

Friends of the imprisoned men here believe that there is every prospect of an early release for the men.

CLAIM RAILWAY IS FACING A HEAVY DEFICIT

AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION

Counsel Suggests There is Less Need For Increased Rates

The West

Ottawa.—An interesting development in the hearing before the rail commission of the application of the Canadian railways for increased freight rates and passenger rates occurred when H. J. Symington, counsel for the government of Manitoba, submitted the suggestion that, in view of the fact that operating expenses are lower and earnings higher on western C.P.R. lines, the same necessity does not exist for an increase of rates in the west.

Mr. Symington had been examining

Mr. J. M. Moule, assistant comptroller of the C.P.R. at length on the cost of operating in the east and west, it being shown that during the past four years net operating expenses in the west are lower than in the east, and the net earnings per train mile are higher, those for 1919 being approximately eighty percent higher.

"Would you say in view of the figures," asked Mr. Symington, "that freight rates increases should be the same in the west as in the east, if the increase is to be upon the basis of paying money for services rendered?"

Mr. Moule, in reply, said that the operating expenses in the east are largely incurred for the benefit of the west. These include large expenses for port terminals, etc. For this reason, he said, operating ratios are not a proper indication of the earnings on eastern and western lines. Expenses in the west are the lowest not, as has been spread over the entire system. "Is not more traffic originated in the west for the long haul?" asked Mr. Symington.

Mr. Moule: "I suppose it is."

"Even so," interposed Chief Commissioner Carvell, "does it not have to be transported over one thousand miles of waste country?"

Mr. Symington remarked that it was strange that the Lake Superior C.P.R. division was one of the best paying divisions of the C.P.R.

Commissioner McLean compared the Superior division to a bridge which must be maintained, and Mr. Carvell said that without it production in the west would not amount to much.

Mr. Symington remarked that the west generates more of the traffic and this Chairman Carvell agreed. "If it were not for the west," he observed, "that section of the railway would not be there at all."

He added that it would take a powerful argument to convince him that it was a paying piece of railway.

Earlier in Mr. Symington's examination of Mr. Moule, he emphasized the movement of wheat from the west, contrasting the ratio with other commodities.

Mr. Moule said that while it was not necessarily so, the cost would come down as the density of traffic increased till the point was reached where the line would become choked.

"It costs less to move grain on the prairies than any other traffic?"

Mr. Symington: "Yes."

"But we have a very low rate on it," Mr. Moule replied.

The fight throughout the entire sitting was centred on the statement submitted last week by the C.P.R. and designed to show the need of that company for higher rates if it is to be prevented from having a deficit during the year which will end June, 1921. In that statement it was shown that the C.P.R. faces a possible deficit of over thirty-seven millions of dollars if the existing scale of rates is continued in force.

Finished Trip to Dawson

Sir Robert Kindersley, governor of the Hudson's Bay company, has arrived here accompanied by T. P. O'Kelly. They are leaving by steamer for Vancouver by way of White Horse and Skagway.

GRUESOME DISCOVERY IN HUDSON RIVER

Headless and Limbless Body of A Woman Is Found By Longshoremen

New York.—The torso of an unidentified woman with head, arms and legs chopped off has been found in the Hudson River.

Clinging to the skin were shreds of clothing of fine material and minute pieces of wrapping paper. This indicated, according to the police, that before being cast into the river the torso had been wrapped in heavy underwear or a blanket and this in turn covered with heavy wrapping paper and bound with strong cord. The police explained the operation that the package probably had been weighted down, but that water had rotten the wrappings and the torso allowed to come to the surface.

Medical officers claimed that it had been in the water about two weeks.

The police believe that the woman was about 25 and 30 and weighed about 130 pounds.

FRANCE AND U.S. AGREE ON RUSSIAN POLICY

CASE OF GENERAL WRANGEL

Both Countries Agree in Condemnation of the Bolsheviks

Washington.—The United States and French governments are in entire agreement in regard to the future of both Poland and Russia, secretary of state Colby said, in interpreting France's recent construction on the Wrangel case.

France's declaration "of its opposition to the dismemberment of Russia is most gratifying," Mr. Colby said, and added that "the response is a notable declaration from every viewpoint and brings to the position taken by the United States a strong emphasis and powerful support."

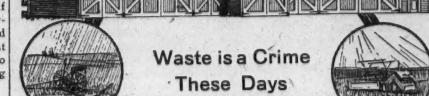

The secretary of state also said that regarding recognition of Gen. Wrangel, "there was a divergence between the two governments, but the United States was disposed to regard the declared agreement of France with the principles of the United States as of more significance than any divergence of policy involved in the specific action of France in this single respect." He declares that France is of the same opinion as the United States "concerning the present rulers of Russia, and points to condemnation of the Bolsheviks in language almost identical with that employed in the United States note to Italy."

RUMORS OR INSURRECTIONS IN KOREA

Tokio.—Advices from Seoul say there are rumors that Koreans are planning insurrectionary demonstrations upon the occasion of the visit of the United States congressional party to that city. The United States congressmen are at present in China, returning from an inspection of affairs in the Philippine Islands.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN CHILLIWACK

Better Farming Train Is An Agricultural College on Wheels

"If the people can't come to the University, then send the University to the people." This seems to be the reasoning of the University of Saskatchewan in stocking up those 13 cars which form the Better Farming Train, and which have aply been referred to, as "an agricultural college on wheels."

During the six weeks that the Train was on tour this summer throughout the province no less than 60 towns were visited and well over a quarter of a million people passed through the cars. Many had driven from 20 to 30 miles to town for the occasion. One man, for instance, came in thirty miles to see the purebred sheep and make inquiries about Jack and Mary.

The nurse is succeeded on the platform by a graduate in Household Science, who gives a practical demonstration of the better home cooking. Mrs. K—, who thought she had nothing to learn in this respect, After further short talks on dairying and poultry by University professors Mrs. K— makes a point of securing some of the admirable bulletins on the lecture subjects.

The talk to children on livestock has long since ended and Jack and Mary, with the other 200 or so youngsters, are taken down to the Boys and Girls Lantern Car, there to listen to a talk on the bird life of the province, illustrated by beautifully colored lantern slides. The talk is succeeded by gramophone representations of bird songs, with the birds shown on the screen.

What is happening to Mr. K— and his grown up son during this while? They are enjoying a talk by an expert stockman from the University on the subject of sheep and horses. Excellent material is at hand from the University farm for purposes of demonstration. The lecturer makes a great point of what can be done in a short time by the use of purchased sires. That is the burden of his talk—the importance of a good sire. He drives home his arguments by displaying the fat and woolly wethers by a good sire and contrasting them with their inferior ewe; then a strapping young gelding shows what a good sire means to his constitution.

Mr. K—, mindful of his bunch of scraggy cattle, makes a resolve to have no further dealings with either scrub stallions or bulls.

After this talk father and son part company, the former to hear a talk on crop production and the latter to visit the farm mechanics section. Mr. K— learns a good deal on the subject of choice of crops, tillage methods, in short, how to get the very best out of his particular farm. The more Mr. K— sees of the train the more he realizes that he is not the first-time farmer he had thought him to be. He appreciates the observation that while any fool can farm, it takes a wise man to farm well. He wishes his own methods had been more intelligent.

Henry K— meanwhile has got into, for the first time, a little heaven—the Medical Section of the train. His knowledge of motor machinery is not very extensive, but the subject fascinates him. The demonstrator explains everything, from the lighting and pumping systems to the working of the Ford engine.

The entry of a second demonstrator spells a pleasant surprise for Henry K—, for he recognizes one of his best schoolboy chums, and it is not long before the two are renewing their friendship. Conversation reveals the fact that Henry's friend has spent the last two winters at the University of Saskatchewan, attending the agricultural college. This, of course, explains his knowledge of farm motors. As the demonstrator relates something about the College of Agriculture at Saskatoon, Henry cannot help feeling a little jealous; when the friend suggests the possibility of Henry's coming to the University for six months in the winter, the idea fills the lad with a great desire. What a place, thinks he, the University must be, this minute! of it (the train) is so good. The demonstrator introduces Henry to the Professor of Engineering in the University, the professors of Field Husbandry and Animal Husbandry, and Henry, who had always thought of the way, at the university, is a brilliant scholar of English Literature.

Meanwhile Mrs. K—, together with all the womenfolk and babies are being conducted to the Household Science Car, which adjoins the Nursery Car. At the latter Mrs. K— leaves her baby, as do the other mothers; for there are three gentle ladies managing that nursery, while a chaise, a sand-pile, bricks and rattles and balls render the place a veritable children's paradise. Baby K— can be assured of the time of her life.

So, while young Jack and Mary, with their father and elder brother, are listening to the livestock talk, and baby is literally kicking up his heels in the nursery, the mother is comfortably seated and listening to a lecture by a qualified nurse on the subject of school and home hygiene. Some pointed things are said by the nurse on the subject of child welfare and Mrs. K— decides there and then that her purchases in town that day shall include a couple of toothbrushes (for Jack and Mary).

By a coincidence Mr. and Mrs. K— meet in the mechanical section car, and Henry requests his friend the demonstrator to show them the sewing machine and the washing machine run by electricity, also the automatic pumping outfit. Young Henry is determined that before long they will have something like this on the farm or he'll know the reason why, Mr. K—, who has many new ideas regarding seed, tillage, stock and implements, feels reasonably confident that with the application of these ideas better days are ahead of them.

It is time to go home. The mother goes to recover her baby, whom she finds happy enough among the pillows. It has been a splendid relief to be free of that chubby infant for a few hours. Mr. K— and Henry have secured the team from the barn, and having placed the bulletins which each has secured in a safe place, the family sets out for the farm. Jack and Mary are full of news, they have seen many talks and the free cinema. Mrs. K—, who has not failed to secure the tooth brushes, digests in silence what she has heard on the subjects of household science, poultry and dairying.

Mr. K— and his son Henry sit in the front seat and talk the whole way home on the subject of better farming. Henry has not had an opportunity to broach the subject of his attendance at the University in the winter, but if we know anything of his character it is safe to say that he will be there.

An All-Veteran Factory

Will be Owned, Managed, and Operated by Returned Veterans

Incidentally and apparently with no thought of being a symbol of the historic past, there will soon be in operation in New Westminster, British Columbia, a factory for the making of cordage and twine, that is also a striking memorial of the war. The new enterprise, the Canada Western Cordage Co., Limited, is what might be called an all-veteran concern. It will be owned, managed and operated entirely by veterans; and the enterprise is to be conducted on a strictly commercial profit-sharing basis.

In starting the company, veterans subscribed $60,000 of paid up capital, with $40,000 additional which will be available if needed, and borrowed $200,000 for 30 years from the Provincial Government under the act for industrial development. One hundred thousand dollars has been spent in the United States for machinery, the factory is nearly finished and is expected to be running to full capacity by autumn. What is equally important is that the new factory will be in a strategic position in the matter of raw material and freight transportation, to sell its product to good advantage throughout British Columbia, the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. British Columbia alone uses 2,500,000 pounds of rope a year, a good deal of which has been imported, so the outlook for the all-veteran cordage company is pleasantly promising.

Consider the Lilies

An applicant for a job was being sized up:

"Do you think you can do the work?" asked the employer.
"Work!" exclaimed the applicant.
"I thought as 'ow you wanted a foreman!"

The United States has one telephone instrument to every eight inhabitants.

be "good fellows," not at all "high and mighty."

During this time Mrs. K— has not been idle, for the exhibits of the train, and in particular the fine specimens of poultry, have proven very interesting. She has been shown how to candle eggs, and given many a tip in the proper care of the birds. On the subject of incubators Mrs. K— has learned much and she admires the splendid specimens of poultry from the University Farm.

Young Jack and Mary, having had a specially conducted tour of the whole train, are now back in Boys' and Girls' Car, enjoying the moving pictures. As Mr. K— passes by outside he hears the chorus of rippling laughter from the Lantern Car, where a comic film is rounding off those bird life scenes.

By a coincidence Mr. and Mrs. K— meet in the mechanical section car, and Henry requests his friend the demonstrator to show them the sewing machine and the washing machine run by electricity, also the automatic pumping outfit. Young Henry is determined that before long they will have something like this on the farm or he'll know the reason why, Mr. K—, who has many new ideas regarding seed, tillage, stock and implements, feels reasonably confident that with the application of these ideas better days are ahead of them.

It is time to go home. The mother goes to recover her baby, whom she finds happy enough among the pillows. It has been a splendid relief to be free of that chubby infant for a few hours. Mr. K— and Henry have secured the team from the barn, and having placed the bulletins which each has secured in a safe place, the family sets out for the farm. Jack and Mary are full of news, they have seen many talks and the free cinema. Mrs. K—, who has not failed to secure the tooth brushes, digests in silence what she has heard on the subjects of household science, poultry and dairying.

Mr. K— and his son Henry sit in the front seat and talk the whole way home on the subject of better farming. Henry has not had an opportunity to broach the subject of his attendance at the University in the winter, but if we know anything of his character it is safe to say that he will be there.

Community Centres As A Remedy For Shortage of Farm Help

As a remedy for the shortage of farm help, it is suggested that community centres be established wherein the farmer, his family and the farm help can enjoy sports and games such as do the employees of the big commercial concerns in the large cities. Contentment with one's environment is one of the chief factors in making for increased production, be it on the farm or the factory, says C. Forrest Ladd, who claims that the farmers of the United States are facing a critical situation in the existing labor problem. Incidentally he gives Prof. T. G. Atkinson, of the Nation's Grange, as authority for the statement that only one percent of the boys of the United States who left the farms to join in war service have returned to take up production from the soil; the other ninety-nine percent, having been attracted to the cities by the many things in the way of recreation and amusement provided in the large centres of population.

It appears that most of these young farmers who enlisted for the war had never before been away from their own home towns, and that the travel unsettled them. This might have been expected. But what may also be expected is, that when they have had a few years of city life they will be glad enough to get back to the farm and stay there, even without the attraction of specially provided forms of recreation as an added attraction to country life. In fact, it would appear as though the best preparation for a life on the home farm would be a course of travel—without expenses provided. This and a little reading would do wonders in making a young boy contented with his lot; and the means leading to this course of preparation is doubtless a liberal education in the schools.

Another factor in providing contented farm help is the farmer who shows a live interest in the well-being of his hired men. The farmer who would keep his help must work with them, treating them as equals and encouraging their interest in community undertakings. As a leader up to community interest, farm interest must come first; however, and the first endeavor of the farmer-employer should be to have his men not only do their work satisfactorily, but also intelligently, and with a view to preparing themselves to become farmers on their own account.

In Canada, where there is land for all to work intelligently at the producing of crops, there is no need for any industrious farm worker becoming discouraged of attaining to ownership of a farm within a reasonable period. Farm workers have only to be encouraged to think ahead in periods of a few years, and they will be content to stay with the farming game for the sake of the opportunity it affords. As for sports, pastimes and recreations, these can easily be found on the farm itself or in the community, with special provision being made by a committee appointed for the purpose. When the members of the community are sufficiently well informed, a leader in local undertakings for entertainment will undoubtedly be found, even among the younger people, and the rest will be willing to follow the leader.

Increased Divorce List in Chicago

Believe Divorce Will Equal Marriage in 30 Years

If the present rate of increase of divorces over marriages continues, Chicago in 1950 will be a city of 37,500 marriages and between 5,000 and 6,000 divorces. This shows an increase of 20 percent since 1911. Three-decades more will see the number of divorces equaling the number of marriages.

"A study of the fundamental trouble shows that 3,575 suits filed in 1914 only seventy owned their own homes. In 2,717 cases there were no children."

"Increasingly childlessness, the growth of the apartment habit and the tendency towards ease, indulgence and fast living only portend more broken homes and greater menace to the future of America."

New Paper Mill At Fort William

First Sod Turned by Lord Burnham

Imperial Press Delegate

The first sod was turned on the site of the paper mill of the Fort William pulp and paper company by Lord Burnham, proprietor of the London Daily Telegraph, on the occasion of the visit of the Imperial Press Conference, overseas and Canadian delegates. A crowd of local people witnessed the ceremony, and cheered the turning of the first sod.

Lord Burnham said that it was a history-making event. Paper manufactured in the mill would probably go a long way to meet local needs and with the extension project ed, the plant might supply trans-Atlantic and even trans-Pacific countries with newspaper paper. It was one more link in the chain of industry which helped to unite the empire.

Washed With Care

Trying to Keep Coal in Germany

Wealthy German Hopes to Reduce Franch Industrially

Hugo Stinnes, the German who is leading Germany's fight to keep as much coal as possible in his own hands and to escape with sending as little as possible to France under the terms of the treaty, frankly admits that he believes that if Germany keeps this coal, in five years' time France will be forced from the world's race of commerce. Without France will be unable to develop her iron industry and will have to turn her out over to Germany, he believes, and then Germany will be in a position to become as strong commercially as she was before the war.

Stinnes is nearly fifty years old, a native of the Rhineland provinces, but looks only about forty. He is one of the richest men in Germany and is reported to have armed 15,000 of his own workmen in the Ruhr district. He is a candidate for election to the Reichstag, and his election is considered a certainty. He started his business career by dealing in coal and iron on a large scale. He controls big interests in ore and metal, not only in Germany, but also in Luxembourg and certain parts of France. With a view, however, of guarding against possible losses, he has recently extended his financial operations in various other directions. One of these has been to acquire tail stores in Berlin and other towns.

Huns Making Reparation

German Government Prepares to Hand Over Boats to Allies

The German government is taking over 24 ships, weighing more than 18,000 gross tons, under construction in various private shipyards of the country, for delivery to the Reparations Committee as provided by the terms of the Treaty of Versailles.

Five of the vessels were ordered by the Hamburg-American line, one of 56,000 gross tons and another 29,000 gross tons. One ship of 18,000 gross tons was being built for the North German Lloyd.

The League's Progress

The League, indeed, is steadily gaining strength and ability to act. It is beginning to make itself felt and it is getting right to the root of international problems. Its newly formed permanent to consider the question of national disarmament, and its decision to establish machinery "for the registration and publication of all future treaties, any not so published to be invalid," are indication of an extremely healthy influence at work in world politics.

Healthy, Happy Boys and Girls

Is your child healthy? If he or she up to standard weight, of good color, with plenty of rich, red blood to nourish the growing tissues?

For children who are thin, pale, anaemic, under weight, nervous, restless, sleepless, Dr. Chases' Nerve Food is of the greatest benefit imaginable.

Being mild and gentle in action, and yet wonderfully potent as a restorative, it soon makes the blood rich and builds up the feeble nerves.

The Russian Soviet

Moscow is the Centre of the Power of Bolshevism.

Development of the Soviet government in Russia has been such that today the vast Russian territory, from the Pacific to the Baltic, is divided into three distinct sections in the attitude of the people toward Bolshevism.

In a recent 4,000-mile trip across the entire country, all the way from Vladivostok to the Finnish border, the Associated Press correspondent observed that Soviet support diminished with increasing distance from the capital at Moscow, where the supreme fairs for iron-clad militarism are issued.

In the remote eastern section of Siberia, the Bolsheviks admit failure to establish their system and are seeking to create a buffer state known as "The Far Eastern Republic." Siberia proper, from Irkutsk to the Urals, where eight months ago Bolshevism was welcomed as a relief from the Kolchak regime, is ready for another change to anything which will bring economic betterment.

VERY SIMPLE CURE FOR BAD COLDS

Let your cold gain headway and you can't keep it from running into Catarrh.

Catarrh never stays in the same place—it travels down into the lungs, then it's too late!

Drive colds and catarrh right out of your system while you have the chance.

Easily done by inhaling Catarrh ozone, which instantly reaches the true source of the trouble, gets right where the living germs of catarrh are working.

Unearth Skeleton of British Soldier

While digging up a new sidewalk in front of the Stamford high school, near Lundy Lane, Andrew Fisher found the skeleton of a British soldier buried about eighteen inches below the surface. The skeleton is that of a man well over six feet. Nearby were copper buttons, but it was not possible to identify to which company the man had belonged. A number of lead bullets were beside the remains.

Munich Liniment Co., Limited, Gentlemen:—Ever since coming home from the Boer war I have been bothered with running fever sores on my legs. I tried many salves and liniments; also doctor's compound for sores, but nothing would stop the blood from her system is provided with. Before long her pallid cheeks, frequent headaches and breathlessness and heart palpitation will continue until she is exhausted. Many mothers as the result of their own girlhood experience can promptly detect the early signs of anaemia and cure it before it becomes serious.

Minard's Liniment.

The effect of which was almost magical. After two bottles the sores completely disappeared. I have worked every working day since.

Yours faithfully,
JOHN WALSH.

McMiv's London

Two highlanders stood looking at the imposing facade of a building in Westminster. The cornerstone bore the date in Roman characters, "MCMIV."

"Lukie a' thot, Angus," said one, "A'ye never heard th' name McMiv before, but heard's a Scotsman who's got his name on one of th' finest buildings in London. Ye can't keep 'em down, can ye?"

PREPARATIONS FOR REFERENDUM GOING AHEAD

Prohibitionists Well Organized and Confident of Success

From information gathered at the headquarters of the Alberta Referendum Campaign conducted by the prohibitionist is well under way. Under the committee's direction the office and field staff have been organized and the work of the campaign and local committees has been vigorously promoted. H. H. Hull, General Secretary of the Social League is Provincial Organizer and Business Manager of the campaign and Rev. Edward S. Bishop, till recently Child Welfare Secretary of the Department of Evangelism of the Methodist Church has been loaned by the church to the campaign and is serving as office secretary and editor of the Searchlight, which is the official organ of the campaign. Rev. A. C. Bryan, Presbytery minister of Taber, was appointed secretary of the provincial committee and is giving his full time to the campaign in the office in Edmonton.

The campaign through organization of the various localities of the province, a strong force of District Organizers has been appointed and given charge either of single provincial constituencies or groups of constituencies.

At present some sixteen or seventeen organizers are at work and other appointments are contemplated in the near future. Local committees have already been organized in practically over two hundred and fifty centres, large and small.

Reports received at the head office indicate opposition in a few sections of the province but the great sections where a majority adverse to prohibition was recorded in the plebiscite of 1915. It is said to be very evident, however, that this opposition is much weaker than then, and there are points where it would not be surprising if the coming in of the women's vote should swing over to a prohibition majority. In many other sections prohibition sentiment is very strong, some indeed being overwhelmingly so. Provincial workers are, however, taking measures but the work is slow and propaganda with all possible vigor. They are out not only to secure the necessary large majority to stop importation of intoxicating liquors, but the present for beverage purposes but to register such an emphatic pronouncement on the part of the whole body of citizens that the action of the police to the man of law enforcement will leave no room for doubt.

Safe-guarding Stock

If farmers wish to safeguard their horses and cattle, they should obtain a registered brand, and see that one of their stock are running, even in their own fenced pastures, without this very necessary means of identification. Numerous complaints are received by the provincial police from farmers of the loss of unbranded horses and cattle, and in the case of young and immature stock especially, descriptions are not much help to the police in recovering the lost or stolen animals.

Hundreds of both horses and cattle are lost annually in the Park, Bow and Spray River districts and the police are naturally powerless to check up the ownership of the unbranded animals. If the horses or cattle carry brands, a bill of sale can be called for and a description of the animals taken for reference in case of complaint, or for identification. If the police have already been notified of loss stock so branded. Neglect this obvious means of protection is simply putting a premium on crime, and no sympathy can be given to any stock owner who does not go to the trouble to have his stock properly branded.
